HEALTHIER SAYS 'FLU' EPIDEMIC MAY BE WANING

Reports Of Ailment Fewer, Dr. Blackburn Declares After Busy Week

SCHOOLS WILL REOPEN

Cases At Camp Shelby Up By 300 Percent In Two Weeks

Indications were noted Saturday that the influenza epidemic, which has closed Circleville schools and all but five schools in the county, is receding.

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, said Saturday that his department was receiving fewer reports of the disease than earlier in the week, with city doctors also reporting fewer cases.

Dr. Blackburn warned, however, that still there was much evidence of the malady throughout the county, many of the cases being very mild. Weather conditions, damp and chilly, are conducive to the spread of the disease, he pointed out, and suggested that everyone avoid undue exposure.

Circleville schools and other suspended schools in the county will reopen Monday at the usual hour, attendance will be checked, and if attendance records show there has been no decrease in the absentee list, classes may be suspended again.

Recent checks made by school officials and board members indicate that the epidemic in several localities has waned. Classes at Darby, Scioto, Walnut, Ashville and Madison, the only schools in the county to remain open the entire week, are expected to continue regular schedules Monday, school authorities report.

A contrary weatherman Saturday did his bit to spread the epidemic, shooting temperatures to 51 Friday noon and then plunging them to the low thirties early Saturday. Rainfall during the night totaled .10 inches. Snow flurries and much colder weather was in store for Saturday night and Sunday.

Influenza Gaining At Camp Shelby

CAMP SHELBY, Miss., Jan. 18 — A 300 percent increase in the rate of illness among soldiers at Camp Shelby, mostly comprising cases described as respiratory infection, has taken place in two weeks, Major-General Robert S. Beighler, base and 37th division commander, announced today.

The situation is neither serious nor alarming, General Beighler said, but the army is taking every precaution with every man who so much as complains of aching bones, he said.

The rate of illness today is 47.11 per 100 men, as compared with 15.5 January 1, according to the commanding general.

General Beighler himself was up this morning after a 24-hour confinement to quarters by a bad cold. He reported the increased illness at his regular morning press conference.

The cases, army physicians insist, are not, for the most part, influenza, but a much milder illness which the army characterizes with the term respiratory infection. Men are hospitalized at the slightest sign of sickness, and that raises the totals, officers assert.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18—President Roosevelt went into session today with his unofficial "board of editors" to produce a final report of the inaugural address which, on Monday, will chart for the nation, the hopes and objectives of his third term.

This "board of editors" assembled quietly at the White House with a very real passion for anonymity, as is their invariable custom.

2,000 SOLDIERS READY TO SAIL FOR MANEUVERS

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 — Units of the streamlined 1st division of the United States Army — composed of 2,000 infantrymen and officers — today were aboard transports at the army base in Brooklyn, preparatory to leaving for Puerto Rico for the annual joint maneuvers of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps.

The picked detachments came to New York by motor truck from Maryland yesterday, and gave crowds of New Yorkers a view of the speedy transport of troops with full field equipment.

BOY CUTS HIS MOTHER, STRIKES FATHER, SETS FIRE TO GOTHAM HOME

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—A mother's love knows no bounds. Even though John McKeever, 20, was in Bellevue Hospital for observation today after slashing his mother with a paring knife, fracturing his father's skull with an iron bar and setting fire to the house, Mrs. Bridget McKeever still maintained "he's a good boy."

The lad, who was on parole from a mental institution, was arrested by police, who had to face the knife, the iron bar and a pair of scissors before taking him into custody.

Mrs. McKeever said he became infuriated when she insisted that he drink some coffee.

LONDON, Jan. 18 — Smashing through snowy weather and intense cold that produced dangerous icing conditions, RAF bombers attacked the "invasion ports" of Cherbourg and Brest and bombed two German air-dromes in occupied France during the night, it was revealed today.

LONDON, Jan. 18 — Attacking in waves and returning repeatedly to drop first fire bombs and then high explosives, German raiders last night and early today heavily pounded the South Wales town of Swansea, causing an unspecified number of casualties.

A few minutes before noon today British authorities permitted revelation that Swansea was the main target of the German air force last night.

Swansea is situated northwest of the important Welsh port of Cardiff at the mouth of the Bristol Channel and is used as a port by ocean-going vessels.

Casualties at Swansea included a few deaths, it was stated, and a "number of persons injured." Two large building premises were destroyed and some private houses were demolished.

NEW POSITIONS BEING CLAIMED BY GREEK ARMY

ATHENS, Jan. 18—Capture of new fortified Fascist positions in Albania and 1,000 Italian prisoners, including a colonel of the famous Wolves of Tuscany Division, was announced officially by the Greek high command today.

This announcement followed a claim by the Athens radio that two Italian troop transports had been torpedoed in the Adriatic and a vast number of Fascist troops captured.

Earlier the high command declared at least 70,000 Italians have been killed, captured or wounded since the Italo-Greek conflict began.

Today's high command communique gave a succinct report of the latest Hellenic advances in Albania. It said:

"During successful operations we occupied fortified positions and took a thousand prisoners and many officers, including Col. Menegatti, commanding the 77th regiment of the seventh division of the Wolves of Tuscany, who recently disembarked in Albania."

In the pocketbook was $35 in cash and jewelry worth nearly $1,000, one ring being valued at $500.

Bockert was recently released from the Ohio prison on parole after serving time on a check charge.

BRITAIN GIRDS FOR "ALL-OUT" EFFORT TO WIN

Secret Plan Is Formed; Churchill Calls For Ships, Guns, Planes

LONDON, Jan. 18—A secret plan to mobilize British manpower even more fully for an "all-out" war effort came to light today following Prime Minister Winston Churchill's declaration at Glasgow that Britain needs more ships, guns and planes—but not men—from the United States in 1941.

It was learned that Labor Minister Ernest Bevin last night completed the draft of a secret plan to use the government's compulsory powers over the manpower of the nation. The program will be submitted to Churchill later today.

On Monday it will be discussed at a meeting of the cabinet, and on Tuesday, it is expected, the plan will be announced to the public.

Under Bevin's scheme, it was revealed, dock workers will be drafted at the busiest ports to await arrival of every shipping convoy. Bevin also will be able to draft unemployed miners and other workers to assist in unloading these ships.

It was understood the building industry also is likely to be affected immediately and that Bevin may suggest a plan tantamount to nationalization of all building activity. In peace time, the industry employs 1,200,000 men.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18—The "all out" British aid program embraced in President Roosevelt's "lend-lease" bill probably will entail expenditure of $7,000,000,000, a high administration source disclosed today.

While frankly saying that an exact estimate is impossible, the cost depending on war trends, this administration leader added that "the figure I've heard discussed is $7,000,000,000."

Members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, now holding hearings on the "lend-lease" bill, thus far have sought vainly to obtain an estimate of the amount of money involved in the measure.

The effort was to be renewed today as William S. Knudsen, arms production chieftain, was scheduled to take the witness stand in support of the measure.

One of the immediate objectives of the program, Secretary of the Navy Knox revealed, is standardization of British and American fighting equipment. Already, he said, progress has been made in standardizing torpedoes, guns and similar defense articles.

Chairman Bloom (D-N.Y., of the Foreign Affairs Committee, called the extraordinary hearing today to speed the "lend-lease" bill. He said that he would be forced to adjourn over inauguration day.

Heavy Pressure Applied

With both Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of the Navy Knox voicing fear of a crisis in 60 to 90 days, the committee was under heavy pressure from administration leaders to rush the bill so that the program of giving more aid to Great Britain can get under way.

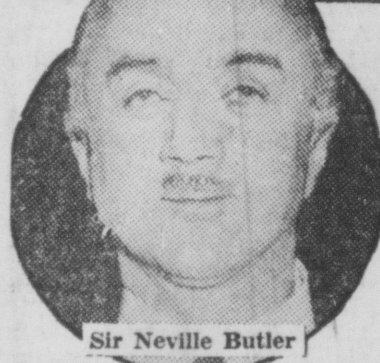

Knudsen was to complete the testimony of the administration "big five" witnesses, which included Secretary of State Hull, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Stimson and Knox.

Republican Leader Wendell L. Willkie, former Ambassador Joseph Kennedy and William Bullitt and Col. Charles Lindbergh were among the luminaries scheduled to testify. Willkie, however, said he would know today whether (Continued on Page Eight)

ROSS COUNTIAN MENTIONED FOR CIRCUIT BENCH

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18 — The names of three Ohioans were mentioned today as potential appointees to the sixth U. S. circuit court of appeals to succeed the late Judge Herschel W. Arant, of Columbus.

They were Garrett S. Claypool, Chillicothe; Common Pleas Judge Stanley Matthews, Cincinnati, and Congressman Stephen M. Young, Cleveland. The appointment, of course, may not go to an Ohioan, for three other states, Tennessee, Kentucky and Michigan are in the sixth district. It is unlikely that a Tennesseean will be chosen as that state now has two members on the court. The other three states now have one member each.

Claypool has long experience as a lawyer and is the brother of Congressman Harold K. Claypool. Some sources said that Judge Matthews has the support of National Committeeman Charles Sawyer.

The judgeship is the first important political patronage to arise since Sen. Vic Donahey retired from the senate, leaving both Ohio senators Republicans. A disagreement between the Ohio Democrats in congress and the national committeeman over the handling of patronage under the new set up is to be discussed at a conference in Washington next Tuesday, attended by the congressmen and state Democratic leaders.

"INTERVENTION" PLAYED

Rumors Insist Something To Take Place Day F.D.R. Is Inaugurated

ROME, Jan. 18—Indications of increased Italo-German military and diplomatic collaboration mounted today as informed Italian quarters predicted a speedy new axis move.

These quarters said they anticipated quick confirmation of a prediction by International News Service three weeks ago that President Roosevelt's inauguration would coincide with an important axis political and diplomatic event.

Last night the Rome radio said that "unexpected events" which might usher in an entirely new phase of the war in the Mediterranean may be expected in the near future.

This afternoon Virginio Gayda, press spokesman for Premier Mussolini, said American interventionists were unequivocally responsible for possible defensive reaction by the axis powers against America.

"The final act of firing a gun in legitimate defense, isolated from the events provoking and forcing it, cannot be defined as aggression," Gayda added.

Press Campaign Goes On

The anti-American press campaign steadily increased.

The newspaper Popolo Di Roma carried the headline: "Miserable American arguments." It went on to comment: "The intense fire of interventionism to which the American people are being subjected is most likely to succeed."

Another influential newspaper, Piccolo, said:

"The bellicose United States democracy is being increasingly agitated."

Il Messaggero mocked what it called American Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson's "apocalyptic warnings."

Realizatione Internazionale, organ of the Italian foreign office, said: "The axis powers are not afraid to accept the struggle no matter how long it lasts against mortal aggressors who through puritanical hypocrisy lack courage to take off their mask."

"The Italo-German pact has not yet reached a complete definitive development."

"Those who are worried over domination of Europe by one or the other of the axis powers or who foresee distant causes of a possible rupture are mistaken."

MORE BREAK-IN JOBS KEEP CITY POLICEMEN BUSY

Two more break-ins and another attempted one, Friday night, caused police to tighten their search for clues which might lead to a possible arrest.

John Courtright, East Franklin Street, told Police Chief W. F. McCrady, that someone broke into his shop Friday night, stole a rifle and two .32 calibre pistols and a box of ammunition, and Ray Arledge, Elm Avenue, reported the theft of a revolver and holster and a two cell flashlight from his residence.

Someone attempted to enter Dwight Steele's poultry establishment on East Franklin Street, broke the glass window in the back door of the building, but failed to get the door open.

The break-in Friday night followed a similar one Thursday night at the Barnhill laundry on South Court Street where a purse containing $2.50 in change was taken from the front office after a side door window had been broken and the door opened.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18—President Roosevelt went into session today with his unofficial "board of editors" to produce a final report of the inaugural address which, on Monday, will chart for the nation, the hopes and objectives of his third term.

This "board of editors" assembled quietly at the White House with a very real passion for anonymity, as is their invariable custom.

Among those on hand to aid in molding into terse, aggressive form this historic document were Judge Samuel Rosenman of the New York supreme court, long the President's literary collaborator; Robert Sherwood, the playwright; Assistant Secretary of State A. A. Berle, and possibly one or two others.

From their presence it was assumed the chief executive was following his usual practice when drafting a speech of such world-wide importance. In the past, it has been his custom to work his own ideas into the succinct form for which he is famous. Then these men are asked to lend a hand in editing, polishing and tightening up.

Fully conscious of the importance of his third inaugural address at an hour when the nation is being mobilized for total defense and "all out" aid to Britain, the chief executive has devoted most of his spare hours during the past few days to its preparation. Over the weekend, he will dictate the finished product which he will carry to the capital—and over the air to the world—on Monday.

Search For Big Bomber Continues In Far West

McCHORD FIELD, Wash., Jan. 18—Search for the Army bomber which vanished Thursday, with seven men aboard, today centered principally along the blizzard lashed mountains of southwestern Washington and northwestern Oregon. At the same time, military and commercial airships kept sharp lookout along the entire coast flight route.

The Cascade and Siskiyou ranges were scoured because of reports from scattered areas that a big plane, apparently in trouble, was seen there several hours after the missing B-18A Douglas bomber took off from McChord Field, near Tacoma, for the Muroc Lake bombing range in southern California.

Army officials also received a report by a WPA road crew near Bonneville, Ore., that a terrific crash was heard near there about 11 o'clock Thursday morning. A CCC crew was ordered into the wild area at dawn today and planes from Pearson Field, near Vancouver, Wash., were to follow if visibility improves.

Col. William M. Crom, commanding officer at McChord Field, expressed hope that the seven men might still be alive. He said the bomber's retractable landing gear might have enabled the ship to make a belly landing on a snow-packed field or mountain side.

Col. Crom said he was inclined to discount the reports from northern California that the plane had crashed in the Siskiyou.

Yesterday morning planes crisscrossed and circled the Mount St. Helena area of southwestern Washington but poor visibility, high winds and low ceiling soon forced the observers back to McChord and Pearson Fields.

"INTERVENTION" FLAYED

Rumors Insist Something To Take Place Day F.D.R. Is Inaugurated

ROME, Jan. 18—Indications of increased Italo-German military and diplomatic collaboration mounted today as informed Italian quarters predicted a speedy new axis move.

These quarters said they anticipated quick confirmation of a prediction by International News Service three weeks ago that President Roosevelt's inauguration would coincide with an important axis political and diplomatic event.

Last night the Rome radio said that "unexpected events" which might usher in an entirely new phase of the war in the Mediterranean may be expected in the near future.

This afternoon Virginio Gayda, press spokesman for Premier Mussolini, said American interventionists were unequivocally responsible for possible defensive reaction by the axis powers against America.

"The final act of firing a gun in legitimate defense, isolated from the events provoking and forcing it, cannot be defined as aggression," Gayda added.

Press Campaign Goes On

The anti-American press campaign steadily increased.

The newspaper Popolo Di Roma carried the headline: "Miserable American arguments."

It went on to comment: "The intense fire of interventionism to which the American people are being subjected is most likely to succeed."

Another influential newspaper, Piccolo, said:

"The bellicose United States democracy is being increasingly agitated."

Il Messaggero mocked what it called American Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson's "apocalyptic warnings."

Realazioni Internazionali, organ of the Italian foreign office, said: "The axis powers are not afraid to accept the struggle no matter how long it lasts against moral aggressors who through puritanical hypocrisy lack courage to take off their mask."

"The Italo-German pact has not yet reached a complete definitive development."

"Those who are worried over domination of Europe by one or the other of the axis powers or who foresee distant causes of a possible rupture are mistaken."

MORE BREAK-IN JOBS KEEP CITY POLICEMEN BUSY

Two more break-ins and another attempted one, Friday night, caused police to tighten their search for clues which might lead to a possible arrest.

John Courtright, East Franklin Street, told Police Chief W. F. McCrady, that someone broke into his shop Friday night, stole a rifle and two .32 calibre pistols and a box of ammunition, and Ray Arledge, Elm Avenue, reported the theft of a revolver and holster and a two cell flashlight from his residence.

Someone attempted to enter Dwight Steele's poultry establishment on East Franklin Street, broke the glass window in the back door of the building, but failed to get the door open.

The break-ins Friday night followed a similar one Thursday night at the Barnhill laundry on South Court Street where a purse containing $2.50 in change was taken from the front office after a side door window had been broken and the door opened.

Of those injured, six were in such serious condition that they were expected to die.

Little Brown Man, Rated As One Of Greatest Of All Times, Unable To Finish Title Bout

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—One of the greatest fighters in the history of boxing looked down that lonesome trail from whence there is no returning today. Henry Armstrong incredibly is through after a last stand that seldom has been equalled for the gallantry of a man trying to punch his way out of bloodshed and physical wreckage in the prize ring.

Champions don't come back. Or, at least, this one didn't, unless it was to tarry a moment and catch the next out-going ambulance.

In trying to regain his welterweight championship last night, Armstrong was beaten so badly by Fritz Zivic, the champion, that the press was barred from his dressing room for a half hour and photographers were not permitted to take pictures of him sitting in a slump and answering questions in a croaking whisper.

OHIO CAGE CARD LISTS TOUGHIES SATURDAY NIGHT

By International News Service
A 13-game program, headlined by five Ohio Conference games, is scheduled in Ohio's unpredictable cage race tonight.

The Conference program is headed by the Kent State-Wooster tilt at Wooster in which the Scots will attempt to return to the victory column after dropping their first league start in 37 games earlier this week at Otterbein. Kent State has a league record of three wins and a single loss while the Scots have split even in two starts.

Other loop games tonight find Marietta at Bowling Green; Mt. Union's unbeaten quintet at Wittenberg; Otterbein at Oberlin; Heidelberg at Kenyon; the Ashland-Ohio Northern tilt was postponed because of an influenza epidemic at Ada.

In the non-league competition, the traditional battle between Ohio University and Ohio Wesleyan at Athens is the banner attraction with the Bobcats a strong favorite to turn back Jim Scott's Bishop five.

Other games involving Ohio teams tonight are: Western Reserve at Akron; Duquesne at Ohio State; Youngstown at Canisius; Marshall at Dayton; Tri-State at Bluffton; Allegheny at Hiram; and Morehead Teachers at Wilmington.

In Cleveland "Big Four" games last night, John Carroll and Western Reserve scored victories over Baldwin-Wallace and Case, respectively. Carroll defeated B & W, 50 to 47, and the Red Cats downed Case, 46 to 42.

In other games last night, Alliance defeated Ohio Chiroprody, 49 to 20, and Miami edged Western State of Michigan, 40 to 37.

EIGHT REMAIN IN 'FRISCO'S EVENT FOR $5,000 POT

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—With the biggest of the big names eliminated, the $5,000 San Francisco National Match Play Open golf tournament went into the quarter finals today.

Yesterday's upsets, which spelled defeat for both the national champion and the defending title holder, left the following eight paired today at the Presidio Golf Club:

Chick Harbert of Battle Creek, Mich., vs. Harry Cooper of Chicago; Al Zimmerman of Portland, Ore., vs. Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill.; Fred Wood of Vancouver, B. C., vs. Jimmy Thomson of Chicopee, Mass., and Tony Penna of Dayton vs. Lloyd Mangrum of Oak Park, Ill.

Harbert went into the quarter finals by defeating the defending champion, Jimmy Demaret, of Houston, 1 up on the 19th green in the second round, while Cooper took Joe Brown of Des Moines, 3 and 2.

National Open Champion Lawson Little of San Francisco went down in the morning round when Leland Gibson of Kansas City beat him, 2 and 1. Then in the afternoon the Missouri pro was eliminated by Revolta, 1 up.

"Slamming" Sammy Sneed of Hot Springs, Va., amazed the gallery with an eight under par on the first 27 holes, but later in the day Thomson defeated him, 1 up. Wood, Thomson's quarter final opponent, advanced at the expense of Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., whom he bested 2 up.

TOUCHDOWN CLUB HONORS SUFFRIDGE OF TENNESSEE

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 18.—Robert Suffridge, Tennessee's all-American guard, today was inscribed as the most valuable football player in the south by the Atlanta Touchdown Club. Suffridge was presented a trophy last night at a banquet addressed by Coach Frank Leahy of Boston College, whose team defeated Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl.

PARKER, DODGER STAR, RATED AS 1940'S GREATEST

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Ace Parker, the Brooklyn Dodgers one-man football team, today was selected the most valuable player in the National Professional Football League last season by the Football Writers' Association of America.

Parker, 168 pound of football dynamite, polled a total of 111 points, defeating his nearest rival, Slingin' Sammy Baugh, the Washington Redskins' passing wizard, by 56 points.

This former Duke all-American, who plans to give up gridiron work for a big league baseball career, becomes the third player to receive the Joe E. Carr Memorial Award, placed in the competition by the league to perpetuate the memory of its founder and late president.

Mel Hein, the New York Giants stellar center, received the honors in 1938 and Parker Hall, the Cleveland Rams all-around backfield artist, was the league's most valuable player in 1939.

In addition to Parker and Baugh, eight other players received votes in the balloting. Sid Luckman quarterback for the champion Chicago Bears, was third with 38 points.

Following in order were Don Hutson, Green Bay end, 22 points; Danny Fortmann, Bears guard, and Davey O'Brien, Philadelphia quarterback tied for fifth place, 21 points apiece; Joe Stydahar, Bears tackle, 16 points; Johnny Drake, Cleveland fullback, 15 points; Byron (Whizzer) White, Detroit halfback, 12 points; Clyde (Bulldog) Turner, Bears center, three points.

STRONG SCHOOL QUINTETS KEEP RECORDS INTACT

By International News Service
Although influenza was the victor in the majority of contests, several Ohio high school teams today added victories to already impressive records.

Akron South's powerhouse turned in its 9th win of the season without defeat by winning an inter-city clash with Akron West, 38-20.

Dover's Crimson Tornadoes chalked up their 9th win in ten starts over Uhrichsville, 45-38 while Fremont Ross gained the same record with a 25-18 win over Bowling Green.

However, the biggest scholastic news of the day is the 35-33 defeat suffered by the hitherto unbeaten Newark High cagers by Coshocton's strong crew. Newark had won eight straight before bowing.

Columbus St. Charles High School scored its ninth straight victory of the current season and its 26th successive triumph over a two-year span in a 50-31 rout of Reynoldsburg.

Canfield, runner-up in the state class "B" tourney in 1940, recorded its 11 win in thirteen starts, defeating North Lima which had a 7-2 record prior to last night's fracas.

Other important games played last night included: Nelsonville stopped Athens four-game winning streak by a 25-23 margin; Zanesville edged Cambridge, 37-36; Ravenna turned back Wadsworth, 32-31; Pomeroy drubbed its old rival from Middleport, 46-21; Marietta thrashed Lancaster, 47-31; Fostoria upset Tiffin Junior Order, 32-29; East Liverpool crushed Wellsville, 55-31; and Canton St. John recorded its 9th win in a row by whipping Louisville, 54-20.

AMANDA'S AGES, HILLSBORO FIVE TO INVADE CITY

Fairfield County Quintet Plays High School In Tuesday Contest

INDIANS COME FRIDAY

Hiatt, Young And Christy Back From Tittlists' 1940 Combine

Two games, both of major importance, are on the basketball schedule for Coach Roy Black's Circleville varsity next week, the first being ticketed for Tuesday night and the second for Friday. Both will be played on the Athletic Club court.

Starting festivities will be invasion of the Circleville balliwick Tuesday night by Amanda's par-excellent Black Aces, winners of the central district title last year and semi-finalists in the state tournament. The Amanda boys, coachless for the present since resignation of Trevor Jones last week—the mentor wishing the easier (?) vocation of farming—boast of one of the finest combinations in Ohio again.

Paced by the inimitable Wayne Hiatt, the Black Aces have lost only one game this year, that to Bremen in an early season upset. Columbus South was thumped, and so was Lancaster St. Mary's combination, among many others.

Veterans back from last year in addition to Hiatt are Barney Young at center and Christy at forward. Hiatt plays a guard, but his splendid stamina makes him appear to be playing all the positions on the court.

Lutz, a guard, and Clevenger, a forward, are missing from last year's combination.

Stanforth Along

Friday evening brings Bus Anderson and his Hillsboro Indians, victors by seven points over the Tigers on the Highland County floor a few weeks back when the Red and Black missed 13 free throws. Hillsboro has a strong team, one that possesses plenty of brawn, and uses it. Porky Stanforth, center on the football team, is the scoring ace. His arm weaving tactics and his ever present gift of gab, used to advantage at the most opportune times, were blamed by some fans for the big number of fouls missed at Hillsboro.

Coach Black indicated in Friday afternoon's practice, the first one held this week, that some changes would prevail in the starting five. His first combination was comprised of Don Valentine and Jim Callihan at forwards, Sammy Moorehead at center and Joe Stanley and Gerald Ayers at guards. Callihan has been playing with the reserve team, but has been showing steady improvement. Moorehead was moved up the night of the Grove City game and, although failing to score, played a neat floor game. Ayers has been playing forward, but will be dropped back to team with Stanley.

The second combination Friday had Moon and Woods at forwards, Jackson at center and Geib and Martin at guards.

The latter crew was working Amanda's defensive setup against the varsity in an effort to show the first five what would have to be done against the varsity in an effort to show the first five what would have to be done against the Black Aces.

A capacity crowd is expected to fill the gymnasium for the Amanda scrap, and a good showing by the locals will assure another full house for the Friday joust.

THREE WAY RACE BEING WAGED IN SCORING CIRCLES

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18.—The three-way race for collegiate basketball scoring honors in Ohio lost one of its principal characters today with the shelving of Youngstown College's Leo Mogus, now pacing the Buckeye field with 177 tallies in eight games played by the Penguins.

Mogus scoring spree was brought to a temporary halt this week when he suffered an ankle injury.

The injury to the 6 foot 4 inch Youngstown sophomore star, gives Bob Gerber, of Toledo, an opportunity to overcome the 8-point lead which Mogus now holds. Gerber has connected for 169 points in ten Rocket victories for a near 17-point per game average.

In third place is Frankie Baumholtz, the Midvale flash, who is wearing the Green and White of Ohio University. Baumholtz has scored 155 points in nine games, but will have an opportunity to pick up some slack tonight when the Bobcats entertain Ohio Wesleyan at Athens.

New NBA Champion

National Pro Moguls To Pick High Commissioner

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—The National Professional Football League will name a high commissioner of professional football at the annual meeting to be held in Chicago during the first week of April, it was announced today in the wake of a two-day session of the owners of the league clubs.

Although "eight or ten men are under consideration for the post," none of the club owners would divulge the names of the prospects for the lucrative post. The club owners were also wary in the discussion of the salary that will be paid the commissioner, but it was believed to be in the neighborhood of $25,000 per year.

Arch Ward, Chicago sports editor, was the first man approached on the subject of taking over the commissioner's post, but following a three-hour conference with football moguls, Ward declined the post. A year ago, Ward declined the presidency of the league at a reputed salary of $25,000.

George N. Kilpatrick, president of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, and James A. Farley, former postmaster general of the United States, were named unofficially in connection with the commissioner's job along with William Alfs, a Detroit attorney, who resigned last fall as president of the Detroit Lions.

Alfs was active in framing a new constitution to guide the football league, which will be presented and probably accepted during the Chicago meeting in April. The revised constitution will provide for the naming of a commissioner, straighten out matters in connection with the drafting of players and put teeth in the regulations of drafting college men for participation in professional football.

MOST OF YANKEE STARS TO GET CUTS IN PAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Most of the veteran New York Yankees today faced a salary cut as the club's 1941 contracts were mailed out to 35 players. Contracts went to 16 performers who were not members of the 1940 team.

Despite indication of the salary slashes, it was intimated that Joe DiMaggio will be offered $27,500, same as he received last year.

About This And That In Many Sports

Paul Brown's been named Buckeye grid coach, and he's stated his policies, and most everyone knows who at least a couple of his assistants will be, and now all we have to do is sit back and wait for the Big Ten school to take over permanent possession of the Conference title. . . . But it's not going to be that easy. . . . No one was more pleased with Brown's election than Ye Janitor, but anyone who thinks Ohio's path from now on is strewn with roses has another gander coming. . . . All Brown has to do his first year at Ohio State is find replacements for Don Scott, Jim Langhurst, Jim Strausbaugh (already provided by Dick Fisher), Claude White, Bill Nosker, Frank Clair, Charlie Maag and the ineligible Charlie Anderson. . . . That'll be simple, yeh?, with the 1940 coaching staff singing last fall about lack of replacements. . . . The frosh team was a honey, that's true, and there'll be some boys from that time on the first string, including Paul Serlinghaus, Hamilton flash, in the backfield; Lynn Houston, Massillon boy, at guard, and Martin, Massillon boy, also, at center. . . . But there are many uncertainties about Ohio's varsity for 1941 even with Pee Brown as the mentor. . . . The schedule includes Missouri, Southern California, Northwestern, Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Purdue and Pitt. (the games aren't in that order) and it isn't so simple. . . .

A couple of interesting letters come to the desk from sports followers. . . . One praising Brown for his pledge that Ohio boys will be in condition to play football, and lamenting the fact that several good Circleville teams have been beaten because the boys were not in proper condition. . . . Parents of our lads must get properly interested, the author pens, before the condition can be corrected. . . . "A couple of the boys can be in condition to win," he writes: "All of them must be that way."

WALNUT BEATEN BY HOLY ROSARY QUINTET, 50-26

Walnut Township cagers bit off a pretty big bite Friday evening in the form of the Columbus Holy Rosary cagers and suffered a 50-26 defeat, the game being played on the county school's court.

The first half of the ball game was hotly-contested, ending 23-17 in favor of the Irish school, but the final two periods found the Walnut lads unable to stop the barrage of field goals fired by the Rosary quintet.

Hanley, Rath and Schmitz, each with 10 points, paced the winners, while Bill Wharton added 10 for Walnut.

BIG TEN FIXES DATES FOR TRACK, GOLF MEETS

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—The Big Ten track and field meet will be held at Minneapolis May 16 and 17, instead of May 23 and 24 as originally scheduled, it was announced today.

The change was made at a meeting of conference athletic directors yesterday, because of a conflict with examination periods at some schools. For the same reason, the Big Ten golf tournament on the Millrose Farm Course will be June 18-19 instead of May 26-27.

Columbus St. Charles High School scored its ninth straight victory of the current season and its 26th successive triumph over a two-year span in a 50-31 rout of Reynoldsburg.

Canfield, runner-up in the state class "B" tourney in 1940, recorded its 11 win in thirteen starts, defeating North Lima which had a 7-2 record prior to last night's fracas.

Other important games played last night included: Nelsonville stopped Athens four-game winning streak by a 25-23 margin; Zanesville edged Cambridge, 37-36; Ravenna turned back Wadsworth, 32-31; Pomeroy drubbed its old rival from Middleport, 46-21; Marietta thrashed Lancaster, 47-31; Fostoria upset Tiffin Junior Order, 32-29; East Liverpool crushed Wellsville, 55-31; and Canton St. John recorded its 9th win in a row by whipping Louisville, 54-20.

AMANDA'S ACES, HILLSBORO FIVE TO INVADE CITY

Fairfield County Quintet Plays High School In Tuesday Contest

INDIANS COME FRIDAY

Hiatt, Young And Christy Back From Tittlists' 1940 Combine

Two games, both of major importance, are on the basketball schedule for Coach Roy Black's Circleville varsity next week, the first being ticketed for Tuesday night and the second for Friday.

Both will be played on the Athletic Club court.

Starting festivities will be invasion of the Circleville bailiwick Tuesday night by Amanda's par-excellent Black Aces, winners of the central district title last year and semi-finalists in the state tournament.

The Amanda boys, coachless for the present since resignation of Trevor Jones last week—the mentor wishing the easier (?) vocation of farming—boast of one of the finest combinations in Ohio again.

Paced by the inimitable Wayne Hiatt, the Black Aces have lost only one game this year, that to Bremen in an early season upset.

Columbus South was thumped, and so was Lancaster St. Mary's combination, among many others.

Veterans back from last year in addition to Hiatt are Barney Young at center and Christy at forward. Hiatt plays a guard, but his spindly stamina makes him appear to be playing all the positions on the court.

Lutz, a guard, and Clevenger, a forward, are missing from last year's combination.

Stanforth Along

Friday evening brings Bus Anderson and his Hillsboro Indians, victors by seven points over the Tigers on the Highland County floor a few weeks back when the Red and Black missed 18 free throws.

Hillsboro has a strong team, one that possesses plenty of brawn, and uses it. Porky Stanforth, center on the football team, is the scoring ace. His arm weaving tactics and his ever present gift of gab, used to advantage at the most opportune times, were blamed by some fans for the big number of fouls missed at Hillsboro.

Coach Black indicated in Friday afternoon's practice, the first one held this week, that some changes would prevail in the starting five.

His first combination was comprised of Don Valentine and Jim Callihan at forwards, Sammy Moorehead at center and Joe Staley and Gerald Ayers at guards. Callihan has been playing with the reserve team, but has been showing steady improvement.

Moorehead was moved up the night of the Grove City game and, although failing to score, played a neat floor game. Ayers has been playing forward, but will be dropped back to team with Staley.

The second combination Friday had Moon and Woods at forwards, Jackson at center and Gelb and Martin at guards.

The latter crew was working Amanda's defensive setup against the varsity in an effort to show the first five what would have to be done against the varsity in an effort to show the first five what would have to be done against the Black Aces.

A capacity crowd is expected to fill the gymnasium for the Amanda scrap, and a good showing by the locals will assure another full house for the Friday joust.

THREE WAY RACE BEING WAGED IN SCORING CIRCLES

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18—The three-way race for collegiate basketball scoring honors in Ohio lost one of its principal characters today with the shelving of Youngstown College's Leo Mogus, now pacing the Buckeye field with 177 tallies in eight games played by the Penguins.

Mogus scoring spree was brought to a temporary halt this week when he suffered an ankle injury.

The injury to the 6 foot 4 inch Youngstown sophomore star, gives Bob Gerber, of Toledo, an opportunity to overcome the 8-point lead which Mogus now holds. Gerber has connected for 169 points in ten Rocket victories for a near 17-point per game average.

National Pro Moguls To Pick High Commissioner

CHICAGO, Jan. 18—The National Professional Football League will name a high commissioner of professional football at the annual meeting to be held in Chicago during the first week of April, it was announced today in the wake of a two-day session of the owners of the league clubs.

Although "eight or ten men are under consideration for the post," none of the club owners would divulge the names of the prospects for the lucrative post. The club owners were also wary in the discussion of the salary that will be paid the commissioner, but it was

About This And That In Many Sports

Paul Brown's been named Buckeye grid coach, and he's stated his policies, and most everyone knows who at least a couple of his assistants will be, and now all we have to do is sit back and wait for the Big Ten school to take over permanent possession of the Conference title. . . . But it's not going to be that easy. . . . No one was more pleased with Brown's election than Ye Janitor, but anyone who thinks Ohio's path from now on is strewn with roses has another gander coming. . . . All Brown has to do his first year at Ohio State is find replacements for Don Scott, Jim Langhurst, Jim Strausbaugh (already provided by Dick Fisher), Claude White, Bill Nosker, Frank Clair, Charlie Maag and the ineligible Charlie Anderson. . . . That'll be simple, yeh?, with the 1940 coaching staff singing last fall about lack of replacements. . . . The frosh team was a honey, that's true, and there'll be some boys from that time on the first string, including Paul Sereningshaus, Hamilton flash, in the backfield; Lynn Houston, Massillon boy, at guard, and Martin, Massillon boy, also, at center. . . . But there are many uncertainties about Ohio's varsity for 1941 even with Pee Brown as the mentor. . . . The schedule includes Missouri, Southern California, Northwestern, Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Purdue and Pitt, (the games aren't in that order) and it isn't so simple. . . .

A couple of interesting letters came to the desk from sports followers. . . . One praising Brown for his pledge that Ohio boys will be in condition to play football, and lamenting the fact that several good Circleville teams have been beaten because the boys were not in proper condition. . . . Parents of our lads must get properly interested, the author pens, before the condition can be corrected. . . . "A couple of the boys can't be in condition to win," he writes: "All of them must be that way."

Walnut Beaten By Holy Rosary Quintet, 50-26

Walnut Township cagers bit off a pretty big bite Friday evening in the form of the Columbus Holy Rosary cagers and suffered a 50-26 defeat, the game being played on the county school's court.

The first half of the ball game was hotly-contested, ending 23-17 in favor of the Irish school, but the final two periods found the Walnut lads unable to stop the barrage of field goals fired by the Rosary quintet.

Hanley, Rath and Schmitz, each with 10 points, paced the winners, while Bill Wharton added 10 for Walnut.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—Most of the veteran New York Yankees today faced a salary cut as the club's 1941 contracts were mailed out to 35 players. Contracts went to 16 performers who were not members of the 1940 team.

Despite indication of the salary slashes, it was intimated that Joe DiMaggio will be offered $27,500, same as he received last year.

BIG TEN FIXES DATES FOR TRACK, GOLF MEETS

CHICAGO, Jan. 18—The Big Ten track and field meet will be held at Minneapolis May 16 and 17, instead of May 23 and 24 as originally scheduled, it was announced today.

The change was made at a meeting of conference athletic directors yesterday, because of a conflict with examination periods at some schools. For the same reason, the Big Ten golf tournament on the Millrose Farm Course will be June 18-19 instead of May 26-27.

The Slighted Invitation

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Newman Campbell

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for January 19 is Luke 14:15-35, the Golden Text being Luke 14:17, "Come, for all things are now ready.")

THE SCENE of the lesson today is the same as in last week's lesson, somewhere in Peraea, the province of Palestine, opposite Judea, on the eastern side of the river Jordan. The time was January, A. D. 30.

Jesus was dining with a Pharisee and his friends, and He had just finished telling them that the type of guest they should invite to their feasts was the poor the maimed, the lame and the blind, because they would not be able to return the favor. In other words, the host would not be trying to gain benefits from such guests.

As our Lord finished this speech, a man near Him said:

"Blessed is he that shall eat bread in the kingdom of God." This man thought, doubtless, that the talk was getting a little out of hand. He was afraid Jesus would say something to offend, and he tried to change the conversation. Jesus answered him by telling another parable. A certain man made a great supper and asked many people to it. When all was ready he sent his servant to those invited, saying, "Come, for all things are now ready."

Instead of hurrying to the feast as real friends would, rejoicing at the chance to eat the good food and have a happy time, each one made some flimsy excuse. One said he had bought a field and must go to look at it. Another announced that he had bought some oxen and must try them. And still another explained that he had just been married and could not leave his home.

Naturally the host was very hurt and angry. "Go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city," he said to his servant, "and bring in hither the poor, the maimed, and the halt, and the blind."

Still Not Enough

The servant did as his lord bid, and came to him again to say he had done so, but there were still not enough. "Go into the highways and hedges," he answered, "and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled. For I say unto you, That none of these men that were hidden shall taste of my supper."

The refusal of these men to come to the supper of the man who had invited them was an insult, for none of the excuses given were important enough to keep them away if they had wanted to come. The moral of the story is that we, too, make many excuses to stay away when we are invited to partake of the Lord's bounty. The things we are doing may seem of large importance to us at the time; but are they, when we consider what it means to us to be forever kept away from His hospitality?

Next Jesus reminded those that followed Him that in order to be a true disciple, it was necessary for a man to leave all his kith and kin—even to hate them if they would hinder him in his mission—and to "bear his cross and come after Me." He must not value even his own life if it interfered with the service of the Master.

Giving His reasons for this, Jesus says:

"For which of you, intending to build a tower, sitteth not down first, and counteth the cost, whether he have sufficient to finish it? Lest haply, after he hath laid the foundation, and is not able to finish it, all that behold it begin to mock him."

Asks for Peace

"Or what king, going to make war against another king, sitteth not down first, and counteth the cost, whether he be able with ten thousand to meet him that cometh against him with twenty thousand? Or else, while the other is yet a great way off, he sendeth an ambassador, and desireth conditions of peace."

There must be no distractions when a disciple "takes up his cross" to follow Jesus and teach His message.

"So, likewise, whosoever he be of you that forsaketh not all that he hath, he cannot be my disciple."

"Salt is good; but if the salt have lost his savor, wherewith shall it be seasoned? It is neither fit for the land, nor yet for the dunghill; but men cast it out. He that hath ears to hear, let him hear."

"Come, for all things are now ready," our Golden Text says. The world so badly needs the message of brotherhood and good will our Lord preached. We must not give excuses nor hesitate to follow Him at once and do those things He asks of us.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Luke 14:15-35.

By Alfred J. Buescher

"If any man come to me, and hate not his father, and mother and wife, and children, and brethren, and sisters, yea, and his own life also, he cannot be My disciple," said Jesus.

"For which of you, intending to build a tower, sitteth not down first, and counteth the cost, whether he have sufficient to finish it... lest he be not able to finish it."

Or what king, going to make war against another king, sitteth not down first, and consulteth whether he be able with ten thousand to meet him that cometh against him with twenty thousand?

The Slighted Invitation

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Newman Campbell

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for January 19 is Luke 14:15-35, the Golden Text being Luke 14:17, "Come, for all things are now ready.")

THE SCENE of the lesson today is the same as in last week's lesson, somewhere in Perea, the province of Palestine, opposite Judea, on the eastern side of the river Jordan. The time was January, A. D. 30.

Jesus was dining with a Pharisee and his friends, and He had just finished telling them that the type of guest they should invite to their feasts was the poor the maimed, the lame and the blind, because they would not be able to return the favor. In other words, the host would not be trying to gain benefits from such guests.

As our Lord finished this speech, a man near Him said: "Blessed is he that shall eat bread in the kingdom of God." This man thought, doubtless, that the talk was getting a little out of hand. He was afraid Jesus would say something to offend, and he tried to change the conversation. Jesus answered him by telling another parable. A certain man made a great supper and asked many people to it. When all was ready he sent his servant to those invited, saying, "Come, for all things are now ready."

Instead of hurrying to the feast as real friends would, rejoicing at the chance to eat the good food and have a happy time, each one made some flimsy excuse. One said he had bought a field and must go to look at it. Another announced that he had bought some oxen and must try them. And still another explained that he had just been married and could not leave his home.

Naturally the host was very hurt and angry. "Go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city," he said to his servant, "and bring in hither the poor, the maimed, and the halt, and the blind."

Still Not Enough

The servant did as his lord bid, and came to him again to say he had done so, but there were still not enough. "Go into the highways and hedges," he answered, "and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled. For I say unto you, That none of these men that were bidden shall taste of my supper."

The refusal of these men to come to the supper of the man who had invited them was an insult, for none of the excuses given were important enough to keep them away if they had wanted to come. The moral of the story is that we, too, make many excuses to stay away when we are invited to partake of the Lord's bounty. The things we are doing may seem of large importance to us at the time; but are they, when we consider what it means to us to be forever kept away from His hospitality?

Next Jesus reminded those that followed Him that in order to be a true disciple, it was necessary for a man to leave all his kith and kin—even to hate them if they would hinder him in his mission—and to "bear his cross and come after Me." He must not value even his own life if it interfered with the service of the Master.

Giving His reasons for this, Jesus says:

"For which of you, intending to build a tower, sitteth not down first, and counteth the cost, whether he have sufficient to finish it? Lest haply, after he hath laid the foundation, and is not able to finish it, all that behold it begin to mock him, saying:

"Or what king, going to make war against another king, sitteth not down first, and counteth the cost, whether he be able with ten thousand to meet him that cometh against him with twenty thousand? Or else, while he is yet a great way off, he sendeth an ambassador, and desireth conditions of peace."

There must be no distractions when a disciple "takes up his cross" to follow Jesus and teach His message.

"So, likewise, whosoever he be of you that forsaketh not all that he hath, he cannot be my disciple."

"Salt is good; but if the salt have lost his savour, wherewith shall it be seasoned?"

"It is neither fit for the land, nor yet for the dunghill; but men cast it out. He that hath ears to hear, let him hear."

"Come; for all things are now ready," our Golden Text says. The world so badly needs the message of brotherhood and good will our Lord preached. We must not give excuses nor hesitate to follow Him at once and do those things He asks of us.

OFFICERS PUT TO WORK

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—The staff officers of "this man's army" have to be physically fit, too. Maj. Gen. Claude V. Birkhead, commander of the 36th division, Texas National Guard, ordered his officers to exercise for an hour each afternoon except Saturdays and Sundays, until the division went to its permanent station at Camp Bowie, Brownwood.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Luke 14:15-35.

"If any man come to me, and hate not his father, and mother and wife, and children, and brethren, and sisters, yea, and his own life also, he cannot be My disciple," said Jesus.

"For which of you, intending to build a tower, sitteth not down first, and counteth the cost, whether he be able with ten thousand to meet him that cometh against him with twenty thousand?"

Or what king, going to make war against another king, sitteth not down first, and counteth whether he be able with ten thousand to meet him that cometh against him with twenty thousand?"

"Or else he sendeth an ambassador, and desireth conditions of peace. So likewise, whosoever he be of you that forsaketh not all that he hath, cannot be My disciple." (GOLDEN TEXT—Luke 14:17)

SEE THE WHOLE PICTURE

WE Americans are certainly not "totalitarians" in the sense of seeking total and irresponsible power, as the dictatorship nations do. But we must be total to the extent of seeing the whole picture and acting on that basis.

Apparently there are Americans, some of them in places of power, who do not see the whole picture, and therefore the true picture, of civilization as it stands today, with the vast problems created for free nations by irresponsible autocrats.

Is it possible that one unit of democracy—be it Britain or the United States—can stand alone and preserve its principles and heritage?

If Britain went down, what of Canada? If both were conquered, what of us? If the free union of homogeneous states known as the British Commonwealth of Nations were destroyed, could our own country ever be the same again?

This comment is not intended as an argument for American participation in the war, but merely a continuance of our present policy of non-combatant support of Britain by peaceful and lawful methods. But even this procedure is assailed by some frightened critics who would abandon our sister-democracies and best friends to the mercy of the dictators.

TARDY MEASLES

LAST year should have been "measles year" in New York City. As school teachers, parents and health authorities generally know, some diseases come and go in cycles. The population seems to gain temporary immunity.

In New York the even years are usually "measles years". But 1940 broke the rule with an unusually small number of cases. Toward the end of the year the curve began to rise. The first week in January had five times as many new cases as the last week of December. "The outbreak is definitely with us," says the registrar of records in the Health Department.

It will be a nuisance, as teachers know, with school attendance disrupted. It will be a time of anxiety for parents and extra work for doctors and nurses, all anxious to give victims the best possible care and to prevent serious complication.

There is one cheerful thought, however. If the rhythm was going to be broken, it was fine to have it broken by being delayed a year rather than coming a year early.

Adolf's chances fail as his patent blitzkrieg becomes common property.

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Awake to a dark and nasty morning, one of the kind that makes Winter unpopular with me. Soon below stairs for coffee and the morning prints and reading about Churchill and his statement that England does not wish American soldiers, but must have American arms. I like that fellow. He tells the truth whether or not it hurts and in all these months he has supported only one hope, that Britain will emerge triumphant. And in the meantime, he tells his people, you are due for hard times. Well, the British at least know exactly what to expect.

Dick Williamson dropped into the plant bearing a letter from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and declaring him one of the important winners in the national independent Exhibitors Contest for motion picture promotion. Dick's campaign on "The Wizard of Oz" was the money getter, and a fine job it was. He received a check for $25.

In came the auditor for his annual check of my records and after a few hours he placed on my desk a slip that I thought was a recap of the national debt.

but which he insisted is my tax bill for next year, or rather one part of it. Another hoist like that and I will be inclined to change the name from Circleville Herald to Federal Herald. Well, as someone already has said, "We ain't seen nothin' yet."

Met Dick Simkins and learned that a flu victim's legs are hinged four ways when he gets out for the first time. Chatted briefly with Earl Smith, who was enroute to see his doctor and then back to bed. Paul Brown told me of his experience, but looked little the worse for it, having caught the ailment in plenty of time. Most of us would be better off if we did the same thing instead of fighting to stay on foot.

Ernie Hill reported improvement in the Williamsport situation and said schools would reopen there next Monday on schedule. Ran into Bob and Lady Terhune and their two fine boys from Clarksburg. Bob's school just having been closed, but will resume Monday.

Exchanged greetings with Judge Weldon, who was hale and hearty as any man in these parts. Heard that J. B. Woods, who spends each winter in the Florida canning business, had found time for some fishing and had landed an eleven one-quarter pound bass.

Read how the Farmers' and Sportsmen's organization had decided to spend $150 for release of rabbits in the county. Do think it is a good idea to split the cash between birds and rabbits. Don't favor spending anything for fish, however, until the state department determines why fish do not fare better in our local waters.

Wonder how long it will be before officials begin taking licenses away from the joints that sell liquor to boys? Understand one of the reasons for the lack of action is the license fees paid by the dealers. Personally, I would rather lose all the license fees than see one youngster drunk. Dealers in liquor certainly are fixing to kill the goose that lays the golden egg when they sell to minors. That was one of the reasons for prohibition. If a man wants liquor and is able to pay for it then I think his drinking is entirely his own affair. But drinking by kids is something different.

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

"EXPERT" PAYS FOR SHOES

WASHINGTON—This is the interesting story of a little man on the Defense Commission who, like the one on the stair in the verse, on second look wasn't there—and how that cost the Government a lot of money in buying Army shoes.

The little man is Frank M. Folsom, executive vice president of one of Chicago's largest department stores, formerly vice president of Montgomery Ward, and one of the greatest merchandisers in the country. That he wasn't there when the "bite" was put on the Government was not his fault, but that's ahead of the story.

It really begins 22 years ago, when Folsom returned from France as a First Sergeant in the Air Corps. As he was mustered out of the service, he made a solemn resolve:

That if ever there was another national emergency, and he could do anything about it, he would see that the men who did the fighting had shoes that fitted, uniforms that didn't look like burlap sacks, and blankets that were long enough to cover the feet.

Last fall, Folsom got the chance to ratify this ambition when his old Sears, Roebuck business rival and close personal friend, Procurement Director Donald Nelson, summoned him to Washington as a Dollar-a-year expert to help clothe the new selective service army.

In five months Folsom supervised the placing of more than $100,000,000 worth of orders, and made a number of money-saving innovations in the Army's buying practices. One of these was in the purchase of shoes—2,397,000 pairs, of every possible length and width at a saving of around $1.50 a pair under what the Army paid in 1917-18.

HOW IT WAS DONE

Folsom accomplished this feat by the device of asking a large number of shoe manufacturers all over the country for informal bids covering the number of shoes they could make.

Under the old system, the Army announced it was in the market for so many pairs of shoes and asked for bids, which gave the edge to a few big firms who could deliver contracts of such size in the time specified. Small companies couldn't cope with such giant orders, but Folsom's plan made it possible for them to get contracts of a moderate size on an equal price footing with the big fellows.

Under his method of informal negotiated bids, seventeen shoe plants in New England, the Midwest and the South got nice slices of the 2,397,000 pairs at prices ranging from a low of $2.65 to a high of $2.97, averaging $2.83 a pair or about $1.50 less than the World War price.

BIG BOYS SQUAWK

Everybody was happy—except the big manufacturers who, under the old system, had for years enjoyed a virtual monopoly of the government's shoe business. They didn't like Folsom's method one bit, and they let out a series of loud squawks.

The New England Shoe Manufacturers Association, dominated by a few big firms, held a protest meeting and irately de-

Hand Eruptions

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Yesterday we discussed the skin eruptions on the hand and pointed out the fact that the hand is particularly likely to be the seat of skin damage on account of its exposed position. We reviewed four forms of skin eruptions on the hands—redness, red spots, red lumps and blisters. Today we wish to continue the subject and take up the other forms.

Pimples or pustules on the hands are usually due to a secondary infection of a dermatitis. The dermatitis may come from soap or other chemicals.

Ringworm is possible on the hands and may become infected, producing pimples. The same thing is true of scabies or the itch. Plain old-fashioned smallpox may appear on the hands in more profusion than anywhere else on the body.

Scales—The commonest cause of scales on the hand is some form of eczema. Eczema is an old-fashioned term which will probably never go out of usage, although skin specialists are rather anxious to discard it for the reason that it is sort of a cloak for ignorance and the eczema may actually be due to a chemical dermatitis or some other form of irritation.

Psoriasis

The commonest chronic disease which produces scaling on the hands is psoriasis. Treatment in the case of eczema or psoriasis is dependent on the cause, the age, and the condition of the patient.

Ringworm is a very common disease on the hands and produces scales in certain cases. It will be noticed that ringworm may produce nearly any kind of an eruption.

When crusts and fissures appear in a localized area, cancer must be thought of.

The commonest cause of dry, fissured skin on the hands, however, is too much soap and water, especially laundry soap. The treatment of this is protection with rubber gloves.

Ulcers or open sores are caused in most cases by cancer. Sometimes contact infection must be thought of.

Chemicals such as lime or chrome will produce ulcers; so also will tuberculosis of the skin, and the so-called rabbit fever, or tularemia, usually begins as an ulceration on one of the fingers of a housewife who has dressed a rabbit without wearing rubber gloves.

Scars

Scars on the Hand—Scars are very interesting to doctors because they indicate the previous disease which may have a bearing on present symptoms or manifestations elsewhere in the body. Scars which follow ordinary injuries with cutting of the skin or infection, and produce the large giant scars known as "keloids," may be very troublesome. They usually can be successfully treated with filtered X-ray, especially in the younger age group.

Disturbances of pigmentation of the hand with white spots and liver spots are common but very resistant to any kind of treatment known to scientific dermatology. Among other diseases which appear on the skin of the hand but which are caused by deeper changes is so-called Raynaud's disease, due to blanching and pallor of one or more fingers. Sometimes this occurs on exposure to cold and cold water and sometimes from emotional disturbances. It is apparently a nervous disease affecting the blood vessels. Treatment must take into account the psychological factors.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

J. P.:—"To settle an argument kindly answer in your column whether cancer is a contagious disease or not, either directly or casually?"

Answer—No, the nature of cancer is not at all like that of a contagious disease. No germ has ever been cultivated from it. Portions of cancer which have been transplanted under the skin of those willing to make the experiments, have died out without producing any cancer in the body. Thousands of people have come in intimate contact with cancer patients for long periods of time without getting the disease themselves.

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO

CAPTAIN LANCY and Cary had barely disappeared through the door when Chief Crane rose to his feet.

"Wait here for me," he told us. "I'll be right back." He hurried out, and Janet and I were left alone. I was too miserable to speak, and Janet must have felt the same way, for she sat with her eyes fixed disconsolately on the floor until the men returned. The detective and Cary came in together; a few steps behind them were the chief and old Jabez.

"I can't understand it," Cary was saying. "I left those papers with Mark."

"You didn't find them?" asked the chief.

"No," answered Captain Lancy. "We went through every paper that had blown to the floor and through the drawers of the desk. There's nothing of the sort there."

"Could Mark have put them in the safe?" asked the chief.

Cary decidedly shook his head. "He didn't know the combination. Grandfather and I are the only ones who know that. The person who shot Mark must have taken them. Oh, Lord, what a mess!" Despair was in his voice.

"I've been thinking about that," returned the chief. "The hole in the door is plenty large enough for a man to put his hand through and turn the key. But having done that, did he have time enough to open the door, enter, take the papers—"

"he might have had to go through all those papers to find them, you know. Even if they lay on top of the desk, it took some time to cross the room, identify them and get back to the door, and every second counted. Having done all that, did he have time to go out the door and again putting his hand through the hole in the glass, lock the door before Jabez came to the library door?" He turned to Jabez.

"Are you absolutely positive there wasn't anyone in or leaving the library when you first looked in?"

"I am, sir. First I saw Master Mark; then I looked around the room. There wasn't anybody there, and I know there wasn't a hand through that broken door. There was a sound on the terrace either; the lightest footfall can be heard there, you know."

"I wasn't so sure of that! I hadn't heard Miss Althea."

"I don't believe the murderer had time to do all that," the chief finished decidedly.

"And I agree with you," Captain Lancy's tone was crisp. "Not having found the papers, Mr. Essex, you'll have to tell us what was in them."

Cary straightened his drooping shoulders. "That I shall not do."

His tone was courteous but firm. "If you had found the papers, I could not have prevented you from reading them. As you did not, I shall keep the secret and try to forget it. Mark has paid with his life for knowing it; I may be the next one, but—I'm keeping it to myself.

"You know the penalty for withholding vital evidence," snapped the chief.

"I do, but the story in those papers isn't evidence as to who killed my cousin. It is a story of things which happened almost 30 years ago. My father and Horace Rand were vitally concerned in it, my aunt only to the extent of knowing about it."

"Then you believe Horace Rand shot your cousin?" the detective asked.

"From what I learned about him today, I wouldn't put murder or anything else beyond him." Cary spoke passionately. "Mark must have been killed for those papers. But how could anyone know he had them?"

"That remains to be learned. If later, I come to you and tell you I need this information which you and only you can give me, what then?" Lancy's voice was grave.

Cary considered for a moment. "You mean you may not be able to learn who killed him unless I tell you the story?"

"Yes."

"I don't see how that can ever be, but if it is, come to me and I'll tell you what you want to know."

"Fair enough! Now, Chief Crane, let's get the groundwork off our hands."

"Who found Mark?" Chief Crane looked from Janet to me.

"Jabez got to the door first. Nancy and I were close behind him." Janet's voice shook, but strengthened as she went on.

She described the sound we had heard—she had been sitting with Mrs. Gould—how she raced down the stairs, and of my calling after her and catching up with her at the living room door. She told of our looking into the morning room and dining room and, going by the stairs, spying Jabez at the library door, almost overcome by the sight there.

"Do you agree with that?" he asked me.

"I do, entirely."

"Tell us where you were and what you did when you heard the shot."

"I was in my room. I had gone to bed, but could not go to sleep and got up intending to smoke a cigarette by my fire. I was just going to sit down there when I heard a noise. I thought the big chandelier in the living room had fallen. I listened and heard someone on the back stairs, and when I got to the main hall I saw Janet's head disappearing down the stairs. She has told you the rest."

"Footsteps on the back stairs, eh?" mused the chief. "Jabez, who do you think that was?"

"It must have been Alice, sir. She got down the stairs first. I saw her coming down as I opened the door into the main hall."

"Then," said the chief slowly, looking at the detective, "that eliminates Mrs. Gould, Miss Essex, Miss Deane and Alice."

His words were relieving to me.

Dick Williamson dropped into the plant bearing a letter from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and declaring him one of the important winners in the national independent Exhibitors Contest for motion picture promotion. Dick's campaign on "The Wizard of Oz" was the money getter, and a fine job it was. He received a check for $25.

In came the auditor for his annual check of my records and after a few hours he placed on my desk a slip that I thought was a recap of the national debt.

"EXPERT" PAYS FOR SHOES

WASHINGTON—This is the interesting story of a little man on the Defense Commission who, like the one on the stair in the verse, on second look wasn't there—and how that cost the Government a lot of money in buying Army shoes.

The little man is Frank M. Folsom, executive vice president of one of Chicago's largest department stores, formerly vice president of Montgomery Ward, and one of the greatest merchandisers in the country. That he wasn't there when the "bite" was put on the Government was not his fault, but that's ahead of the story.

It really begins 22 years ago, when Folsom returned from France as a First Sergeant in the Air Corps. As he was mustered out of the service, he made a solemn resolve:

That if ever there was another national emergency, and he could do anything about it, he would see that the men who did the fighting had shoes that fitted, uniforms that didn't look like burlap sacks, and blankets that were long enough to cover the feet.

Last fall, Folsom got the chance to fructify this ambition when his old Sears, Roebuck business rival and close personal friend, Procurement Director Donald Nelson, summoned him to Washington as a Dollar-a-year expert to help clothe the new selective service army.

In five months Folsom supervised the placing of more than $100,000,000 worth of orders, and made a number of money-saving innovations in the Army's buying practices. One of these was in the purchase of shoes—2,397,000 pairs, of every possible length and width at a saving of around $1.50 a pair under what the Army paid in 1917-18.

HOW IT WAS DONE

Folsom accomplished this feat by the device of asking a large number of shoe manufacturers all over the country for informal bids covering the number of shoes they could make.

Under the old system, the Army announced it was in the market for so many pairs of shoes and asked for bids, which gave the edge to a few big firms who could deliver contracts of such size in the time specified. Small companies couldn't cope with such giant orders, but Folsom's plan made it possible for them to get contracts of a moderate size on an equal price footing with the big fellows.

Under his method of informal negotiated bids, seventeen shoe plants in New England, the Midwest and the South got nice slices of the 2,397,000 pairs at prices ranging from a low of $2.65 to a high of $2.97, averaging $2.83 a pair or about $1.50 less than the World War price.

BIG BOYS SQUAWK

Everybody was happy—except the big manufacturers who, under the old system, had for years enjoyed a virtual monopoly of the government's shoe business. They didn't like Folsom's method one bit, and they let out a series of loud squawks.

The New England Shoe Manufacturers Association, dominated by a few big firms, held a protest meeting and irately de-

Hand Eruptions

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
Yesterday we discussed the skin eruptions on the hand and pointed out the fact that the hand is particularly likely to be the seat of skin damage on account of its exposed position. We reviewed four forms of skin eruptions on the hands—redness, red spots, red lumps and blisters. Today we wish to continue the subject and take up the other forms.

Pimples or pustules on the hands are usually due to a secondary infection of a dermatitis. The dermatitis may come from soap or other chemicals.

Ringworm is possible on the hands and may become infected, producing pimples. The same thing is true of scabies or the itch. Plain old-fashioned smallpox may appear on the hands in more profusion than anywhere else on the body.

Scales—The commonest cause of scales on the hand is some form of eczema. Eczema is an old-fashioned term which will probably never go out of usage, although skin specialists are rather anxious to discard it for the reason that it is sort of a cloak for ignorance and the eczema may actually be due to a chemical dermatitis or some other form of irritation.

Psoriasis The commonest chronic disease which produces scaling on the hands is psoriasis. Treatment in the case of eczema or psoriasis is dependent on the cause, the age, and the condition of the patient.

Ringworm is a very common disease on the hands and produces scales in certain cases. It will be noticed that ringworm may produce nearly any kind of an eruption.

When crusts and fissures appear in a localized area, cancer must be thought of.

The commonest cause of dry, fissured skin on the hands, however, is too much soap and water, especially laundry soap. The treatment of this is protection with rubber gloves.

Ulcers or open sores are caused in most cases by cancer. Sometimes contact infection must be thought of.

Chemicals such as lime or chrome will produce ulcers; so

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO
CAPTAIN LANCY and Cary had barely disappeared through the door when Chief Crane rose to his feet.

"Wait here for me," he told us. "I'll be right back." He hurried out, and Janet and I were left alone. I was too miserable to speak, and Janet must have felt the same way, for she sat with her eyes fixed disconsolately on the floor until the men returned. The detective and Cary came in together; a few steps behind them were the chief and old Jabez.

"I can't understand it," Cary was saying. "I left those papers with Mark."
"You didn't find them?" asked the chief.

"No," answered Captain Lancy. "We went through every paper that had blown to the floor and through the drawers of the desk. There's nothing of the sort there."

"Could Mark have put them in the safe?" asked the chief. Cary decidedly shook his head.

"He didn't know the combination. Grandfather and I are the only ones who know that. The person who shot Mark must have taken them. Oh, Lord, what a mess!" Despair was in his voice.

"I've been thinking about that," returned the chief. "The hole in the door is plenty large enough for a man to put his hand through and turn the key. But having done that, did he have time enough to open the door, enter, take the papers—he might have had to go through all those papers to find them, you know. Even if they lay on top of the desk, it took some time to cross the room, identify them and get back to the door, and every second counted. Having done all that, did he have time to go out the door and, again putting his hand through the hole in the glass, lock the door before Jabez came to the library door?" He turned to Jabez.

"Are you absolutely positive there wasn't anyone in or leaving the library when you first looked in?"

"I am, sir. First I saw Master Mark; then I looked around the room. There wasn't anybody there, and I know there wasn't a hand through that broken door. There wasn't a sound on the terrace either; the lightest footfall can be heard there, you know."

I wasn't so sure of that! I hadn't heard Miss Althea.

"I don't believe the murderer had time to do all that," the chief finished decidedly.

"And I agree with you," Captain Lancy's tone was crisp. "Not having found the papers, Mr. Essex, you'll have to tell us what was in them."

Cary straightened his drooping shoulders. "That I shall not do. His tone was courteous but firm. "If you had found the papers, I could not have prevented you from reading them. As you did not, I shall keep the secret and try to forget it. Mark has paid with his life for knowing it; I may be the

"I listened and heard someone on the back stairs, and when I got to the main hall I saw Janet's head disappearing down the stairs. She has told you the rest."

"Footsteps on the back stairs, eh?" mused the chief. "Jabez, who do you think that was?"

"It must have been Alice, sir. She got down the stairs first. I saw her coming down as I opened the door into the main hall."

"Then," said the chief slowly, looking at the detective, "that eliminates Mrs. Gould, Miss Essex, Miss Deane and Alice."

"You know the penalty for withholding vital evidence," snapped the chief.

"I do, but the story in those papers isn't evidence as to who killed my cousin. It is a story of things which happened almost 30 years ago. My father and Horace Rand were vitally concerned in it, my aunt only to the extent of knowing about it."

"Then you believe Horace Rand shot your cousin?" the detective asked.

"From what I learned about him today, I wouldn't put murder or anything else beyond him," Cary spoke passionately. "Mark must have been killed for those papers. But how could anyone know he had them?"

"That remains to be learned. If later, I come to you and tell you I need this information which you and only you can give me, what then?" Lancy's voice was grave.

Cary considered for a moment. "You mean you may not be able to learn who killed him unless I tell you the story?"

"Yes."

"I don't see how that can ever be, but if it is, come to me and I'll tell you what you want to know."

"Fair enough! Now, Chief Crane, let's get the groundwork off our hands."

"Who found Mark?" Chief Crane looked from Janet to me.

"Jabez got to the door first. Nancy and I were close behind him," Janet's voice shook, but strengthened as she went on.

She described the sound we had heard—she had been sitting with Mrs. Gould—how she raced down the stairs, and of my calling after her and catching up with her at the living room door. She told of our looking into the morning room and dining room and, going by the stairs, spying Jabez at the library door, almost overcome by the sight there.

"Do you agree with that?" he asked me.

"I do, entirely."

"Tell us where you were and what you did when you heard the shot."

"I was in my room. I had gone to bed, but could not go to sleep and got up intending to smoke a cigarette by my fire. I was just going to sit down there when I heard a noise. I thought the big chandelier in the living room had fallen. I listened and heard someone on the back stairs, and when I got to the main hall I saw Janet's head disappearing down the stairs. Welfare Work Topic Of Discussion Friday Eve

Judge Robinson Of Ohio Department On Program

More than 50 Pickaway County women today have a clearer understanding of the welfare work administered by the County Board of Public Assistance since hearing the enlightening talk of Judge Henry L. Robinson, Friday, at the annual dinner meeting of the local board in the New American Hotel.

Judge Robinson of the State Board of Public Assistance substituted for Charles Sherwood, state welfare director, who was unable to appear because of illness.

Reviewing briefly the setup of the state welfare department, Judge Robinson referred to it as one of the largest, and mentioned the divisions functioning under it as: business administration; correction; aid to the aged (with the newer developed subdivisions of aid to dependent children and aid to the blind); probation and parole, and public assistance. The last division he mentioned as not new, merely as a new grouping in handling the finances of state welfare.

Judge Robinson then explained why such a board is needed: "It's primary purpose is to bring security to those who need help through reasons not in their control. It cooperates to develop, organize and administer the federal, state and county money used in local welfare work. It helps to arrange a program in each county that will be adequate for its needs; it seeks not to upset but to build through an established program. More than money, it helps to prepare children for lives of service. It strives to help people to keep out of correctional or other kinds of institutions; encourages them to become self-supporting as money is not handed out without a service program."

"Each county board of public assistance includes the judge of the juvenile court, since he sanctions the use of money in the aid to dependent children program; one member of the county commissioners, because the county's share of the welfare program comes through this body; and several lay members chosen to preserve a cross section of the thinking of the county," was Judge Robinson's explanation of the setup of board membership.

Judge Robinson then discussed the duties of the board in its assistance to the active agencies for health and welfare already functioning in a community; in the health work among children; in arranging a program of vocational aid rather than academic education for slow but normal children; in character building, through establishing a feeling of confidence in children; in urging churches and other character building agencies to enlarge their programs; in coordinating all boards for real service and sympathetic understanding as well as for the spending of money.

Judge Lemuel Weldon, juvenile court judge, judge of the probate court and member of the Pickaway County Board of Public Assistance, was in charge of the meeting. He presented Mrs. Robert Adkins in opening the after dinner program, who, as director of aid to dependent children of this county, acquainted the guests at the meeting with the local work. "Seventy-one families including 179 children are now receiving aid in this department," said Mrs. Adkins, who expressed real pleasure in her work with the fine mothers of the group. She then explained the sources of revenue and the additional service possible during the last year of work.

COUNCIL GIVES MORE THOUGHT TO ITS FUNDS

Appropriations Considered At Special Session; Final Passage To Be Soon

SALARIES ARE HELD UP

1941 Estimates To Be Nearly $22,000 Under Amount Used In 1940

In a special session Friday night, City Council pulled its 1941 appropriation ordinance out of the hands of the finance committee, heard it read for the second time, and then sent it back to the committee for "further consideration."

No major changes were made in the ordinance, which as it stands, reduces appropriations to nearly every department of the city, with cuts totaling more than $12,000.

With city police and firemen awaiting passage of the appropriation ordinance before they receive their January salaries, Council was expected to suspend the three-reading rule Friday night and rush the ordinance to a final vote. Absence of three members, Frank Lynch, J. H. Helwage and G. G. Groom, however, blocked such action. Council is expected to hold a special meeting next week to give the ordinance its third and final reading and bring it to a vote.

$22,000 Under 1940

The total 1941 appropriation of $99,385 will run more than $22,000 under the total appropriation last year of $122,292, with the difference due largely to the slashes taken by departments financed through the city's general fund.

Appropriations for the safety department, including police and fire, were cut from $24,475 last year to $18,230 this year; the health department from $3,150 to $2,885; service from $21,990 to $16,537; hospital from $23,600 to $21,150; library from $13,112 to $11,000; cemetery from $130 to $50. Appropriations for street repair, taken from the vehicle license fund were cut from $7,350 to $4,600 and from the gasoline tax fund from $10,000 to $6,800.

Appropriations for city light bills were cut $3,000 under last year's amount. Only department in the city which may receive an increase in its appropriation is the sewage disposal plant, where employees were previously promised an increase in salary, which increase has never been granted. The plant's appropriation now stands at $10,410.

Nearly Within Means

Council believes the proposed budget will permit the city to operate almost within its financial means in 1941, with anticipated revenue coming into the general fund totaling slightly over $32,000.

9,958 DRAFTEES TO BEGIN MARCH ON ARMY DEPOT

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18 — Final plans were made by Fifth Corps Army headquarters today to receive approximately 9,958 Ohio draftees and volunteers under the Selective Service Act beginning Monday. It will be the second call under the nation's peace-time draft.

Indications were that the orderly procedure earlier anticipated will be disrupted somewhat by the current minor influenza epidemic. State Selective Service officials said that a number of draft boards have made allowances for illness and are prepared to send substitutes for draftees reported ill.

Other boards, they said, would be given several weeks to obtain replacements.

Beginning Monday, the draftees will report at one of four reception centers in the state at the rate of 125 per day and will be sent at once to the places where they will receive their year's training.

The draftees will report either at Fort Hayes, Columbus, Cleveland, Toledo or Fort Thomas, Ky.

BAKER CHARGES FORMER WORKER AS EMBEZZLER

Marvin Sowers, 213 West Corwin Street, was bound over to the grand jury on $1,000 bond Saturday following his arrest on an embezzlement charge. Sowers failed to provide bond and was committed to County Jail.

His arrest took place early Saturday when Ed Wallace, baker, filed a warrant at police headquarters claiming Sowers, who drove a bakery truck for him, had collected $686.64 which he had failed to turn in.

The money was collected between May, 1939 and June 1940, Mr. Wallace said.

NEW PEACE PLAN BEING DRAFTED TO HALT STRIKE

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 18—Federal conciliators today announced they had devised a new peace plan by which they hoped to avert a strike of 1,600 workers at the Ryan Aeronautical Company in San Diego. The strike has been set for Tuesday.

Details of the "new peace plan," however, were not revealed, and all other indications were that the strike order would be put into effect.

The strike was set by the CIO United Auto Workers' Union, aircraft division, after the company, engaged in a $11,400,000 government defense order, refused to grant a demand for wage increases.

Late yesterday's negotiations reached another deadlock when the Ryan Company rejected a counter-proposal offered by union negotiators. Terms of the proposal were not made public, but the original demand of the union was the basic minimum rate be raised from 50 cents to 75 cents an hour. A compromise offer of 58 cents an hour was turned down by the union.

Secret Plan Is Formed; Churchill Calls For Ships, Guns, Planes

Clydeside crowds during a tour of inspection, Churchill stated:

"Do not suppose we are at the end of the road yet. Long and hard though it may be, I have absolutely no doubt that we shall win a complete and decisive victory over the forces of evil, and that victory itself will be only a stimulus to further efforts to conquer ourselves and make our country as worthy in days of peace as it has proved itself in the hours of war."

Churchill, who toured Scottish areas with his wife and Harry Hopkins, President Roosevelt's special emissary, received a specially uproarious welcome at Glasgow.

There, in a formal speech heard by Hopkins, Churchill asked the United States for more weapons but denied that Britain needs large armies from overseas this year.

While Hopkins sat on the platform, his face half hidden by his hand, Churchill said:

"Mr. Hopkins has come in order to put himself in the closest relations to things here. He will soon report to his famous chief on his impressions gathered in our islands."

Men Not Required

"We do not require in 1941 large armies from overseas. What we do require is weapons, ships and airplanes."

"All that we can pay for we will pay for, but we require far more than we shall be able to pay for."

"I watch with deep emotion the stirring processes by which democracy in the great American republic is establishing its laws and formulating its decisions in order to make sure the British Commonwealth of nations will be able to maintain, as it is maintaining, the front line of civilization and progress."

"The bad man never had so great need as now to strike Britain from his path . . ."

"It is certain that if Hitler found invasion difficult in July, he found it more difficult in September and it won't become easier in February, March or April."

Excusing himself from any discussion of what would happen after the war, the prime minister declared:

"My one aim is to extirpate Hitlerism from Europe."

NEW RAF RAIDS COVER BIG AREA IN ITALIAN LAND

CAIRO, Jan. 18 — A new series of Royal Air Force attacks on Derna, Bomba and Bengazi was announced today as British mechanized troops tightened their stranglehold on the Italian garrison in the beleaguered Libyan base of Tobruk.

The latest RAF forays spread about 200 miles west of Tobruk. Derna was pounded hardest, it was stated, and military barracks and other structures suffered direct hits from heavy explosive and incendiary bombs.

Many fires were started in Derna's port establishments, British officials said.

Other British raiders hammered Italian airdromes as the high command followed up its policy by blasting Italian planes at their bases on the ground. The entire Libyan coastal area was searched from end to end for possible new Fascist airdromes.

Latest military advices to Cairo said the British forces at Tobruk were steadily drawing their net closer around the estimated 25,000 Italians there, bottling them up so tightly that they apparently face the alternative of death or surrender within a week.

Informed military quarters said the plight of the Tobruk garrison is similar to that of the Italians who tried unsuccessfully to defend Bardia.

Tobruk's defenders have been cut off from all supplies and reinforcements, it was claimed, and their water supply is dwindling rapidly.

STARS SAY—

For Saturday, January 18

A STATE of fluctuating fortunes is read from the conflicting planetary figure. It may be an extremely active and exciting day with high accomplishment, although much need of care in dealing with large corporations, political, diplomatic and fraternal bodies. In the domestic, romantic, artistic life things may work at crosspurposes, unless care be taken to preserve harmony.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of some conflict, although there should be unusual commotion and excitement. It would be well to use tact, diplomacy to offset duplicity, fraud and undercurrent attack, probably coming from high places. The purely personal life also requires preservation from clash and inharmonious.

A child born on this day should be extremely talented and ambitious although restless and fond of change. It may also encounter domestic difficulties.

For Sunday, January 19

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a rather negative one, with aspects indicating some rather discordant events both in business and home affairs. If this be transmuted the indications are for harmonies and some social, romantic or domestic gratifications. Beware indulgences that might be regrettable.

Those whose birthday it is may have an active year with some surprising developments in business. In the home there may be minor upsets or conflicts. Refrain from overindulgences.

A child born on this day may have many talents and much enterprise which could be directed to apply to good account with restraints in its emotional life.

Deputies Earl Weaver and Robert Adkins arrived in Circleville at 7:30 Friday evening with John T. White, Clarksburg, W. V., wanted in Pickaway County for allegedly passing a bad check for $3,200 on the Pickaway County Farm Bureau for the purchase of hogs.

Icy roads, snow and fog made the 1,800 mile trip to Lincoln, Neb. difficult, the deputies said, although they experienced no trouble at any time. White's term at the Lincoln Penitentiary expired this week and the Pickaway County indictment against him became effective.

Unexpectedly stubborn opposition from Republicans and a flood of protesting letters from people throughout the country to members of congress, may, however, slow up the administration drive. Declaring that it is not necessary for British forces to invade the continent, he declared that once Hitler's invasion of the British Isles has failed, Britain gains mastery of the air and rains bombs on German cities the German people will "crack" and the Hitler regime will fall.

The predictions of Stimson and Knox of an impending 60 to 90 day crisis, which was explained, was believed to be based on the probability of a German invasion of England.

COUNCIL GIVES MORE THOUGHT TO ITS FUNDS

Appropriations Considered At Special Session; Final Passage To Be Soon

SALARIES ARE HELD UP

1941 Estimates To Be Nearly $22,000 Under Amount Used In 1940

In a special session Friday night, City Council pulled its 1941 appropriation ordinance out of the hands of the finance committee, heard it read for the second time, and then sent it back to the committee for "further consideration."

No major changes were made in the ordinance, which as it stands, reduces appropriations to nearly every department of the city, with cuts totaling more than $12,000.

With city police and firemen awaiting passage of the appropriation ordinance before they receive their January salaries, Council was expected to suspend the three-reading ruling Friday night and rush the ordinance to a final vote. Absence of three members, Frank Lynch, J. H. Helwagen and G. G. Groom, however, blocked such action. Council is expected to hold a special meeting next week to give the ordinance its third and final reading and bring it to a vote.

$22,000 Under 1940

The total 1941 appropriation of $99,385 will run more than $22,000 under the total appropriation last year of $122,292, with the difference due largely to the slashes taken by departments financed through the city's general fund.

Appropriations for the safety department, including police and fire, were cut from $24,475 last year to $18,230 this year; the health department from $3,150 to $2,883; service from $21,990 to $16,537; hospital from $23,600 to $21,150; library from $13,112 to $11,000; cemetery from $130 to $50. Appropriations for street repair, taken from the vehicle license fund were cut from $7,350 to $4,600 and from the gasoline tax fund from $10,000 to $8,800.

Appropriations for city light bills were cut $3,000 under last year's amount. Only department in the city which may receive an increase in its appropriation is the sewage disposal plant, where employees were previously promised an increase in salary, which increase has never been granted. The plant's appropriation now stands at $10,410.

Nearly Within Means

Council believes the proposed budget will permit the city to operate almost within its financial means in 1941, with anticipated revenue coming into the general fund totaling slightly over $52,000.

9,958 DRAFTEES TO BEGIN MARCH ON ARMY DEPOT

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18 — Final plans were made by Fifth Corps Army headquarters today to receive approximately 9,958 Ohio draftees and volunteers under the Selective Service Act beginning Monday. It will be the second call under the nation's peace-time draft.

Indications were that the orderly procedure earlier anticipated will be disrupted somewhat by the current minor influenza epidemic. State Selective Service officials said that a number of draft boards have made allowances for illness and are prepared to send substitutes for draftees reported ill.

Other boards, they said, would be given several weeks to obtain replacements.

Beginning Monday, the draftees will report at one of four reception centers in the state at the rate of 125 per day and will be sent at once to the places where they will receive their year's training.

The draftees will report either at Fort Hayes, Columbus, Cleveland, Toledo or Fort Thomas, Ky.

BAKER CHARGES FORMER WORKER AS EMBEZZLER

Marvin Sowers, 213 West Corwin Street, was bound over to the grand jury on $1,000 bond Saturday following his arrest on an embezzlement charge. Sowers failed to provide bond and was committed to County Jail.

His arrest took place early Saturday when Ed Wallace, baker, filed a warrant at police headquarters claiming Sowers, who drove a bakery truck for him, had collected $686.64 which he had failed to turn in.

The money was collected between May, 1939 and June 1940, Mr. Wallace said.

WIFE OF PHILIP NAGEL DIES AT 65; RITES MONDAY

Mrs. Missouri Mae Nagel, 65, wife of Philip Nagel, died Saturday at 4:22 a. m. at her home, 521 East Union Street, after a year's illness. A cerebral hemorrhage was fatal.

Mrs. Nagel was born in Greenup, Ky. July 25, 1875, a daughter of James and Lucinda Arms Smith. She came to Pickaway County in 1926.

In this community a number of shops and private dwellings were damaged.

A large bomb dropped on a southeastern coastal town exploded on the grounds of a convent but the sisters already had evacuated. There were no casualties. An adjoining hall was wrecked and three cottages were badly damaged.

The attack on Swansea lasted several hours.

When the raid began soon after dark the German planes flew overhead in continuous waves despite heavy anti-aircraft fire.

After unloading their incendiary bombs they returned many times to drop heavy explosives, hitting several stores, a school, a church and a motion picture theatre.

One bomb scored a direct hit on a public building while a second missile dug a huge crater outside another.

Other points in Britain were bombed but not so heavily as the South Wales region.

This morning rescue squads were laboring among tangled girders and masonry to reach victims trapped under debris blasted from a stick of high explosives crashed into houses and shops in a southwestern English town just after midnight. A woman and two babies were killed.

Another town on the south coast suffered a prolonged attack that lasted most of the night. Explosive bombs caused minor casualties. A number of incendiaries also fell on this town.

Two bombs fell on the London area as the capital experienced its 422nd alarm of the war. They damaged a public house and a motion picture theatre and blasted the windows from a block of apartments, but failed to cause any casualties. The all-clear signal sounded in London at 4 a. m.

BERLIN, Jan. 18 — Docks and shipyards were heavily hit and warehouses were set on fire at the South Wales port of Swansea by German raiders during the night, authoritative German sources said today.

Mining of other British ports was continued, these quarters added.

Earlier it was claimed the 31,100-ton British battleship Malaya, which arrived at Gibraltar on Wednesday, was so severely damaged by German Stuka dive-bombers last week end that it had to be rushed to dock at once.

They said the British vessel had been heavily hit on a gun turret and about the conning tower.

Meanwhile, German newspapers published front-page pictures of the Luftwaffe's latest long-distance bomber, the Courier, an improved model of the Condors which became famous for their flights before the war between Berlin and New York.

"Tin," once contemptuous slang for "money," may soon be used for it in some countries.
